BIOTIK DESIGN | From Emergency to Regeneration proposes a radical change of paradigm: from design as a consumer tool to design as a life force. Given the unprecedented eco-social crisis, it is not enough to be sustainable; there is a pressing need to be regenerative. Designing not only to offset the damage, but also to heal, restore and revitalise the natural and human ecosystem of which we are part.

BBDW25 called on all creative disciplines to reconnect with life. It encouraged us to address the adverse situation in which we are living by imagining and constructing fertile futures, to work from interdependency, and to trigger processes that care for, repair and put value back into the environment. Biotik Design is not a trend; it is a responsibility and an opportunity: transforming the emergency into possibility.
